ROTC Is on the Way Out At OU, OEP to Replace It

By Dick Fletcher

Omaha University will be among the first school to participate in the new proposed Officer Education Program when it becomes law.

The two-year OEP will replace the present four-year Air Force ROTC program.

Providing that Congress will pass the proposed bill in this session, the Officer Education Program will be installed at OU for the fall semester of 1963; if it is not passed this session it will be installed in the fall of 1964.

Lt. Colonel Shirl H. Swenson, professor of air science at OU, said that there will be a two-year phase-out of the present ROTC program.

During the first year of the OEP, the University will drop the Air Science 1 classes and continue with the ASIL, AS III, and AS IV classes. The ASII course will be dropped during the second year and the phase-out will be complete.

Crowd Foreseen For Miss Skinner

A good-sized crowd is anticipated for the Cornelia Otis Skinner program "Modern Character Sketches," Sunday at Omaha University, according to Donald Z. Woods, dean of the College of Adult Education.

"Letters are arriving from Lincoln, Hastings and other out-state communities asking how to purchase tickets for the Cornelia Otis Skinner performance," he said.

Miss Skinner is a favorite in this community, due to five previous performances in Omaha. Free tickets to this event are available in the CAE offices, room 182, Adm. Day students may pick up identification tickets that will admit them to the performance.

Professor C. Harrold Bush, technical design director in the University Theater, is in charge of staging for the performance.

Injunction Ruling Decided This Week

The Nebraska Supreme Court was to rule Thursday on a motion asking for an injunction to prevent the OU mill levy election from being held April 23.

The high court's action on the motion was not available at GATEWAY deadline.

Asking the injunction was Gerald Ratigan, co-plaintiff in an appeal suit contesting the constitutionality of the OU property tax levied on those portions of School Districts 54 and 66 that are in Omaha.

Attorney for Ratigan and William Archibald asked that the election be postponed until the Supreme Court rules on their appeal case.

Civil War Feature Of Readers' Theater

Poetry and prose on the Civil War era will be featured at the OU Readers Theater in rooms 312 A and B SC at 7:30 p.m., Thursday.

Dr. Warren Gore, assistant professor of speech said the public is invited to hear readings from the works of Carl Sandburg, Walt Whitman and others.

Students who had signed up by Wednesday to do the readings are: Marilyn Hunter, Sue Wolfson, Richard Russell, Elaine Battelle, Fred Crouter, Marjorie Dohse and Bert Miller.

Colonel Swenson said cadets who are now in the Basic ROTC program will be given first preference for the OEP.

Enrollment to Drop

Colonel Swenson also said the total enrollment under the new plan will drop from about 450 to 50 or 60, with no change in the teaching staff.

Major features of the OEP call for:

Orientation of the entire program to the production of professionally qualified regular and reserve officers for service careers.

2. Establishment of a two-year on-campus course of instruction given during the junior and senior years.

3. Three hours of classroom instruction per week for each semester of the two year program.

4. Two summer training periods, one during the summer prior to entry into the program and one following graduation.

5. A scholarship of approximately $2,200 for each selected candidate for commission to be paid directly to the cadet.

6. A requirement to serve at least four years of active duty.

Four Years Duty

All students who at the time of enrollment in the new program have two years' of academic work remaining before the awarding of a baccalaureate or higher degree would be eligible to apply for the OEP.

To get into the OEP, a student must pass the Air Force Officers Qualifying Test, the physical exam, have good academic standing, and be interviewed by an OEP selection Board.

Two 'Big' Advantages

Colonel Swenson noted two major advantages of the OEP over the present AFROTC program as: the student's time spent in the OEP classes will be cut down, and students who are on a five-year program or Junior College transfers can enroll more easily.

Colonel Swenson also said that all the cadets who are now in the Advanced AFROTC Program will automatically go into the OEP.

Slacks Approval Over First Hurdle

The Student Center Planning Committee at their March 5 meeting, approved unanimously a recommendation that women students be allowed to wear slacks, pedal pushers or culottes on the first floor of the student center.

The recommendation will now be passed to the Student Activities Committee which legislate campus policy concerning dress, and then to the University Administration for approval.

Bowling and other similar activities which create an informal atmosphere in the student center led to the action.

Sabres Go to Ill. For Nat. Tourney

The AFROTC Sabres Drill Team were to leave this morning for Champaign, Ill., and the University of Illinois' National Invitational Tournament.

Twenty-four AFROTC cadets and Captain Joseph Davis, Commandant of Cadets, are making the journey by bus.

The Sabres are scheduled for drill competition late Friday and Saturday afternoons in the University of Illinois Field House. They will be in competition with about 40 drill teams from across the nation.

Student, Faculty Artistic Ability On Display at Joslyn Museum

The largest art show ever staged by Omaha University at Joslyn Art Museum started March 3 and will run through March 24.

The show is being held in gallery D and features a combined effort of some 30 students and all of the art faculty. This is the first time that the faculty and students have staged an art show together.

The work exhibited includes watercolors, sculptures, oil paintings, murals, print making, drawing, and ceramics.

The show also includes several murals done in the newly offered mural painting class taught by Peter Hill. Three murals being shown were painted by Lee Burrill, Jim Engler, and Peter Hill. These will be permanently mounted and shown at OU.

Murals by Bob Austin and Judy Davis that aren't being shown will also be permanently mounted.

Sculptors are done in marble, wood and metal.

Some of the works are to be in the art auction on April 28.

Supt. Comes Out For Levy Increase

Miller: 'We'll Help Any Way Possible'; P-TA Council Leader Gives Opinion

Dr. Paul A. Miller, Superintendent of the Omaha Public Schools, Mrs. George Stejskal, president of the city-wide P-TA council, and Frank Hienish, executive secretary of the Omaha Education Association, met with University officials Wednesday to discuss the proposed mill levy campaign.

President Milo Bail outlined OU's plans to the group and asked for suggestions. He told them of the block by block canvass that the students will hold. Dr. Miller said that this personal touch will be an important factor.

Stejskal Approves GATEWAY

Mrs. Stejskal said that the special issue of the GATEWAY which is scheduled for April 16 concerning the mill levy will serve a dual purpose.

First, it would inform the voters on the reasons why the increase is necessary at this time. Second, it would give the students an excuse to get into the homes of the prospective voters to give the OU story.

Speakers Bureau

President Bail told the public school representatives that the student speakers bureau would be "happy to appear before any P-TA groups that would allow them some time."

"We are already planning on 30% of the population to be against us," President Bail said. "It's the other 70% we're going to try and reach."

"We're all anxious to see you get this mill levy increase," Dr. Miller said. "We'll help in any way that we are able."

Bail Asks Student Help for Mill Levy

Some 100 students listened to President Milo Bail present the OU story Wednesday afternoon at a meeting of the Student Speakers Bureau.

This group of students will be responsible for speaking to day classes March 27-28 and the night classes March 25 through 29.

These students have 21 days to prepare their speeches and have them checked by the speech faculty. Dr. Aldrich Paul is in charge of the Bureau.

Two Questions

President Bail stated that there are really only two questions to be answered. One—why does OU need a mill levy increase; two—what will it cost the taxpayer?

In answer to these two basic questions President Bail referred to the enrollment projections, the present need for more laboratories and classroom space, and the increased tuition burden placed on the students.

Half Loaf Bread

"It will cost the taxpayer one half loaf of bread a week or a pound of butter a month. A very nominal sum to pay for so much," he said.

In closing President Bail said, "I need a half million dollars next year to run this University. If it doesn't come from a mill levy increase you know where I'll have to go for it."

Four of ROTC Staff to Leave

The Professor of Air Science, Lt. Colonel Shirl H. Swenson will be among the four members of the AFROTC Department staff who will be leaving Omaha University this summer.

Captain Joseph Davis, Commandant of Cadets, T/Sgt. Billie G. Brown, Supply Sergeant, and S/Sgt. Richard L. Grim, Personnel NCO will be leaving with Colonel Swenson.

Captain and Mrs. Davis will leave in May for Turkey, where he will be on attache duty.

Colonel Swenson and Sergeants Brown and Grim have not received orders as to where they will be stationed.

Lt. Colonel Ratti will move up from his post as Director of Instruction to Professor of Air Science.

Captain Le Roy E. Holtz, who is a 1950 graduate of OU, will be one of the new staff members. Captain Holtz will come back to OU from the Philippines where he is now stationed.

Captain Ronald W. Seinwell, stationed in Spain, and Captain Maurice E. Ray, who is stationed in Japan, will join Captain Holtz as three of the new staff members. The fourth member of the staff has not been named.

The new officers will visit OU for about a week in April, and will take the academic instructors course at Maxwell AFB, Alabama, before returning to OU during the summer.

Defense Shelters Supplies Planned

Notice has been given to the Physical Plant department that the Civil Defense shelters on the OU campus will be stocked.

William Noyes, head of the Civil Defense Agency in Omaha, said he hopes this can be accomplished in three or four weeks.

7,300 pounds of supplies, enough for 737 people, will be stored in the tunnels at OU. They will be Nebraska wafers, medical supplies, sanitary supplies and containers for water, polyethylene bags inside of drums which will be filled after they are delivered.

Mr. Noyes also said, "I hope truck firms and labor unions will furnish the equipment and manpower to deliver these supplies. It will be done on a Sunday so that the industry of Omaha is not interrupted."

Goetcheus Take Home Dessert; Wins After Dinner Speaking

The six finalists out of a field of 38 gave speeches Wednesday in competition for an After Dinner Speaking Contest. The contest was held from 12 noon to 1 p.m. in the student center.

The first place trophy was awarded to Jim Goetcheus, a bootstrapper, who spoke on Federal Aid to American Education. The central theme of his topic was bootstrappers at Omaha University.

Goetcheus is majoring in Military Science and has been attending OU since September, 1962. He will receive his degree in June. Before enrolling at OU, Goetcheus and his family spent three years in Germany. He has done extensive traveling since he joined the service.

The second place trophy was awarded to Mrs. Margaret Pentzien whose speech concerned the art of conversation and speech-making. Although she has presided at several club meetings, this was Mrs. Pentzien's first attempt at public speaking. She has taken only one speech course.

The four other contestants were Fred Crouter, Kenneth Kortright, John McGlynn, and Richard Russell. Each of them received a medal for participating in the event.

OU MENC Group To Be in 'Journal'

The Omaha University Chapter of the Music Educators National Conference will be featured in a coming issue of the Music Educators Journal, the MENC national magazine.

The OU student chapter was started in 1957 by sponsor R. W. Trenholm of the music department.

Tom Harvey is president of the OU chapter which has 20 members. Other officers include: Richard Cantwell, vice president; and Billie Paulson, sec-treasurer.

Music education students at the college level are eligible for membership in the MENC if they do not have regular professional employment as a teacher in the field of music education.

There are over 11,000 members in the organization, representing about 400 student chapters.

The student members have the opportunity to develop a practical concept of the music education profession and become acquainted with the leaders in music and education by participating in the programs and discussions, and performing in groups at the meetings.

The student members have all the privileges of full active membership in the professional MENC with the exception of voting and holding office.

OU's TV Station Offers 'Issue '63'

"Issue '63, a program designed to acquaint Omaha University students and faculty with leaders of the community, went on the air for the first time on KWOU-TV Wednesday afternoon.

The first guest in the series was L. M. Wells, the General Sales Manager for Nebraska at Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The topic for the first program was educational television.

Movie—Questions

Wells showed a movie titled, "Television In Education" and then a panel of OU journalism students asked questions. Wells is currently working on educational television for the Omaha area.

Asking questions were journalists Hans Nohr, Roger Prai, Bill Brand and Arlo Grafton. Jerry Johnson of the Radio-TV department was the moderator.

Students enrolled in Radio and TV handled the technical end of the program which was transmitted through closed circuit TV to Room 256 in the Applied arts Building.

Tom Richard—Idea

The idea for the program was originated by Tom Leverman and Richard Mareel, who are also enrolled in Radio-TV. The technical director was Joe Horvath.

According to Paul Borge, Director of the Radio-TV laboratory, the idea was all their own.

"I just gave them a few suggestions. They really did all the ground work themselves," Borge added.

The program is not correlated with any class.

Gives Experience

"The program is for our own experience and also to create more interest in TV department," Mareel said.

"We also get practical experience ourselves," Leverman added.

The program gave the journalism students some practical experience in their own field.

No Other Chance

Most journalism students would never get a chance to participate in a news conference while in school. But here under actual television conditions the journalist is able "to get his feet wet."

Students' Political Enthusiasm at OU Close to Reaching an All-Time Low

By Bill Grow

With cries of over-liberalism and over-conservatism issuing from college campuses across the nation the University of Omaha can number among its student exponents for either side exactly zero.

Lack of student leadership and participation in anything that smacks of politics has political science faculty members wondering about what it would take to spur young Ouites.

"A meeting for Young Democrats was called about a week ago," commented political science instructor Earl Reeves. "But the only person who showed up was the fellow who called the meeting." Dr. Reeves would be the faculty advisor for Young Democrats if there were anyone to advise.

No Meeting to Come To

The Young Republicans are doing worse. They haven't even called a meeting for no one to show up at. This makes it difficult to assess whether or not they're meeting their Democratic competitors challenges adequately.

Political science department head, and Young Republican advisor William Utley doesn't think so.

YR's Have Unique Problem

Of course, the Young Republicans have a unique problem. They had a student party head when the semester began, but a two-week search by the person's parents, an irate landlady who wanted payment on back rent, and Mr. Utley finally uncovered the errant politician. But the discovery netted no explanation for the long absence and no enthusiasm to retake the helm of the sinking YR political ship.

So scratch the Republicans; unless the truant politician will consent to run it in absentia.

Spoon Fed

Mr. Utley takes a dim view of the faculty having to spoon feed politics to the students.

Plans have been discussed for inviting a speaker who's views have been dimly looked on by conservatives around the United States. Mr. Utley's opinion to the Administration was that such a foray could be good for the students. And such a person is available.

"But this leaves it up to the OU faculty to sponsor the man's visit. Such sponsorship is handled by student political groups on most campuses," he explained; "and that's a much healthier way of handling it."

Apathy: Hard to Understand

"The apathy becomes more difficult to understand when one reviews the possibilities open to young political aspirants on the campus," Mr. Utley said.

"Right now we have the mill levy election coming up. If the election should go against the University, tuition here will certainly go up. That should inspire some of the students to band together and help the election—but it hasn't, at least not under either official political banner," he frowned.

Student politics have been at a low ebb at OU before, but the present state is the closest they've come to being non-existent in a long time.

2 Students Head Workshop for Arts

"Omaha needs a place where young people with creative ideas can go to carry them through," said Bill Duncan and Joe Vandenberg, two Omaha University students. So they founded Omaha's art workshop.

The workshop is located at 1011½ Farnam St. The members have rented the second and third floors for studio and gallery space.

They plan to model the art workshop after the Lincoln Center in New York. The Lincoln Center is a place for painters, sculptors, dancers, writers, and folk singers to find a little peace and quiet.

Duncan said, "It's a building for all the arts. We have almost every type of artist in membership. Everybody is important. We play no favorites."

The members plan to use the second floor for ballet dancers and actors. The walls will be used for gallery space. The third floor will be taken up mostly by studio space for painters and sculptors.

Some members are already using the workshop. Joyce Hunter, a sophomore majoring in dramatics, has been practicing a one act play for her dramatics class. Sue Morris, a junior and sophomore Frank Vigneri, art majors, have been painting walls. After the shop has been cleaned up, they plan to put in bars for the ballet dancers.

The membership fee is $15 a month, which covers studio and gallery space. The first exhibit is planned for the end of this month.

Shift in Rooms Due For Data Processing

Crowded conditions are being felt in the Universities data processing office.

Plans call for the day room across the hall from the data processing office to be remodeled into two offices, one will go to data processing the other to Colonel E. Ratti.

The present day room facilities will be moved to the White House.

The shift should be completed by May 15th.

CIC Indoor Meet Begins Tonite

The annual CIC indoor track championships will be hosted by Omaha University beginning tonight in the Fieldhouse.

The meet will as usual be a four team affair involving Omaha, Emporia State, Fort Hays State and Washburn University of Topeka.

The high jump will be the only championship event scheduled on the program tonight, starting at seven sharp. Broad jump and shotput will be the other field events on the agenda. Preliminaries in all races through the 440 spice cinder chart on the first night.

Saturday will bring the championship finals in all events not completed on Friday night. The afternoon schedule will begin at eleven a.m. with the pole vault finals. The shotput and broad jump finals will open the afternoon portion at 1:15 and the track events will follow.

Omaha U's speedy Indian trackmen notched their second home track meet victory of the season last Friday night as they raced past Simpson College, Morningside and Graceland, all of Iowa.

The point totals were 70 for OU, 25 for Graceland, Morningside with 21 and Simpson in the cellar with a meager 12 points.

While the quadrangular went about as expected in the results, one facet of the evening's production was not to be foreseen. For the first time in two years, OU's fabulous Rocket Roger Sayers was whipped by a teammate.

Sayers pulled up behind veteran Bruce Hunter in the 60 yard low hurdles which in itself is no disgrace considering the fact that Hunter rates as one of the finer hurdlers in Omaha history.

Roger had a rough night in general as he was pressed by Terry Williams, defending state high school sprint champ, in the 60 yard dash. Both were clocked in an amazing 6.1 seconds, tying the Fieldhouse record. Sayers won by a hair for official purposes.

Other Omaha winners were: Williams, with a season low of 50.9 in the 440, Hunter in the lows, Dave Hagglund in the high jump with an effort of 6'2½", a three way tie for first in the pole vault between Gerry Richardson, Ron Potocnik and Denny Beachler at 12' and a team composed of Sayers, Williams, Mel Wade and Lloyd Cardwell took the mile relay in 3:29.6.

Gagers Drop Playoff To Hot Wayne Five

The first venture into post-season basketball play by an OU five since the days of Virgil Yelkin's tenure as coach ended on a sour note as the Indians dropped a 71-55 decision to co-NCC champion Wayne State at Wayne in the District 11 NAIA playoffs Monday night.

The loss pushed the final Indian mark to 10 wins against 12 losses for the year, still the best chart in nearly 10 years.

The Indians led during the early stages but superior height and fine shooting by the Tigers' torrid scoring twins, Ron Jones and Dennis Hanson, vaulted the state school into a 36-30 halftime lead.

Fouls and a cold spell plagued the Indians during the second half and Wayne opened the gap to a safer margin.

Jon Lloyd, OU's jumping jack frosh, led the Indians with 17 points and his usual fine floor game while Bruce Hunter, playing his last game in a long career, chipped in with 11 points.

The dogged OU defense failed to halt Jones and Hanson as planned and Wayne parlayed screens and effective give and go tactics into the game winning strategy.

OU Sends Three To NAIA Finals

A trio of Omaha University wrestlers will compete in the NAIA Wrestling Championships March 14, 15 and 16 at Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania.

Omaha senior George Crenshaw, runner-up in the 157 lb. division last year will carry a record of eight wins and a drew to the championships at Pennsylvania State.

Jim Fuxa, South grad at 130 lbs. suffered only one defeat during the regular season and that was a injury-forced forfeit to Nebraska's Mike Nissen in the final match of the campaign. Fuxa compiled a season total of nine wins one loss and a tie.

Omaha's entry into the 147 lb. class will be another South grad, John DeGeorge. DeGeorge lost his second match of the season, then finished with seven wins and three draws.

Tribe boss, Al Caniglia commented that the three making the trip should give Omaha good representation.

Lambda Chi Leads Bowling League

Lambda Chi, led by Gary Hannibal, rolled the high team game and series for the season Wednesday, February 27.

Hannibal's 670 series helped his team to roll an 864 game and 2488 series.

Hannibal's series was high for the week but fell short of Al Whittaker's 674 which is high for the season.

Mick Coren had the high individual game with a 242.

Lambda Chi continues to lead the pack with 57 wins and 15 losses. The Sig Eps are second with 47-25 record.

THE CURSE OF THE CAMPUS: NO. 2

As was pointed out last week, one would think that with all the progress we have made in the education game, something might have been done by now about roommates. But no. The roommate picture has not brightened one bit. Since Ethan Goodpimple founded the first American college.

(Contrary to popular belief, Harvard was not the first. Mr. Goodpimple started his institution some 75 years earlier. And quite an institution it was, let me tell you! Mr. Goodpimple built schools of liberal arts, fine arts, dentistry, and tanning. He built a lacrosse stadium that seated 102,000. Everywhere on campus was emblazoned the stirring Latin motto CAVE MUSSI—"Watch out for moose." The student union contained a bowling alley, a clock, and a 16-chair barber shop.

...and as for shaving, they didn't

(It was this last feature—the barber shop—that, alas, brought Mr. Goodpimple's college to an early end. The student body, being drawn from the nearby countryside, was composed chiefly of Pequots and Iroquois who, alas, had no need of a barber shop. They braid their hair instead of cutting it, and as for shaving, they don't. The barber, Tremblatt Pollicie by name, grew so depressed staring all the time at 16 empty chairs that one day his mind finally gave way. Seizing his vibrator, he ran outside and shook the entire campus till it crumbled to dust. This later became known as Pickett's Charge.)

But I digress. We were discussing ways for you and your roommate to stop hating each other. This is admittedly difficult but not impossible if you will both bend a bit, give a little.

I remember, for example, my own college days (Berlitz, '08). My roommate was, I think you will allow, even less agreeable than most. He was a Tibetan named Ringading whose native customs, while indisputably colorful, were not entirely endearing. Mark you, I didn't mind so much the gong he struck on the hour or the string of firecrackers he set off on the half-hour. I didn't even mind his singeing chicken feathers every dusk and daybreak. What I did mind was that he singed them in my hat.

To be fair, he was not totally taken with some of my habits either—especially my hobby of collecting water. I had no jars at the time and just had to stack the water any-old-where.

Well sir, things grew steadily cooler between Ringading and me, and they might have gotten actually ugly had we not each happened to receive a package from home one day. Ringading opened his package, paused, smiled shyly at me, and offered me a gift.

"Thank you," I said. "What is it?"

"Yak butter," he said. "You put it in your hair. In Tibetan we call it gree see kidstuff."

"Well now, that's mighty friendly," I said and offered him a gift from my package. "Now you must have one of mine."

"Thank you," he said. "What is this called?"

"Marlboro Cigarettes," I said and held a match for him.

He puffed. "Wow!" he said. "This sure beats chicken feathers!"

"Or anything else you could name," I said, lighting my own Marlboro.

And as we sat together and enjoyed that fine flavorful Marlboro tobacco, that pure white Marlboro filter, a glow of good fellowship came over us—a serene conviction that no quarrels exist between men that will not yield to the warmth of honest good will. I am proud to say that Ringading and I remain friends to this day, and we exchange cards each Christmas and each Fourth of July, firecrackers.

Wherever you or your roommate may be—on any campus in any city, town, or hamlet in any state of the Union—you will find Marlboros at your favorite tobacco counter—soft pack or flip top box.
